HOWLEY-CROZIER

Glove Contest Arranged for Last Night Did Not Come Off.

THE SHERIFF AND HIS DEPUTIES

Took a Hand in the Affair and Prevented the Fight Taking Place—It Will Probably Come off Sometime Next Week—Having Fun With the Sheriff.

The Howley-Crozier glove contest advertised to take place in the city last night, did not come off. This condition of affairs did not come about from a fluke on the part of either of the principals or their backers, but was caused by the arm of the law, in the person of Sheriff Franzheim, who, together with several of his deputies, went down on the South Side and hung around in the neighborhood of the hall where the contest was to take place. The sheriff investigated matters, and found that there were no arrangements made in the hall for the fight, so he and his deputies moved their headquarters further down the street, opposite the saloon of one of the backers of one of the principals, where, in the deep shadows behind the market house pillars, they awaited developments, the impression having been noised about that the contest might take place in the rear of the saloon. One of the deputies, however, was so much larger in circumference than the pillar, that the posse's whereabouts were discovered. The proprietor invited them in, when they could better satisfy themselves that nothing of a law-breaking nature was going on. Needless to say, the invitation was declined.

Throughout the afternoon and evening, there had been rumors that the authorities would prevent the fight going on, and as a consequence the crowd was not nearly as large as it otherwise would have been. However, nearly a hundred sports were on hand, but when it was discovered that the sheriff and deputies were outside ready to pull the crowd if a fight was attempted, the enthusiasm evaporated considerably, none relishing the idea of a stay in the county's bastille. The fight, had it been allowed to take place, would have been a good one, as both men were in excellent shape. The contest will probably come off the latter part of next week at a place not yet determined upon. At midnight a telephone message was received from the backer referred to, to the effect that the sheriff and posse were still on guard, behind the pillars. The proprietor of the place in order to have a little fun with the sheriff, lighted up his hall in the third story of the building, and sent an emissary over to let the sheriff onto the fact that the fight would come off at 1 o'clock this morning. The sheriff bit and with his deputies continued on guard. Both fighters and backers will meet this evening and agree on a time and select a new battle ground for the contest, unavoidably delayed.

THE ROUND TABLE.

School Superintendents have an interesting Session in Wheeling.

The Ohio Valley Round Table met in Superintendent Anderson's office last night, the superintendents present being Meitz, of Steubenville, Gladding, of East Liverpool, Jones, of Bellaire, Mannix, of Martin's Ferry, Gallop, of New Cumberland, Shields, of New Martinsville, Williams, of Mountville, Riggs, of Benwood, Anderson, of Wheeling, and Mr. Mitchell, principal of the Martin's Ferry high school.

Messrs. Gladding and Meitz gave a very interesting description of the Boston schools in regard to the work done in manual training and Kindergarten work. The subject of the Round Table that mathematical power is lost sight of in teaching arithmetic, which should not be the case. It seems that the child gets the mechanical part and not the power to think for himself.

Mr. Jones, of Bellaire, said the object of geography was to give the child a conception of the earth as the home of man. The subject of geography was discussed at length.

The next subject taken up was what the schools need most. Better professional training; better supervision; more efficient teachers; more male teachers; a compulsory school law well enforced, and better salaries, were suggested. This proved to be the most interesting subject of the session.

The session adjourned to meet April 21.

AFTER the grip, when you are weak and "played out," Hood's Sarsaparilla will restore your health and strength. 2
